Take the COP Survey

COP26 shone the spotlight on the need for action if the UK is to reach its net zero ambitions by 2050.

Make UK research has shown that manufacturers are stepping up to the plate and are keen to reach the target - 90% have said net zero was important to their business. But as of right now, just one in five manufacturers are close to achieving their goals.

With momentum and pressure building on businesses to deliver on their net zero ambitions, coupled with the soaring costs of energy and wider costs to business, we're surveying manufacturers to learn more about where they are on their net zero journey and the progress made since COP26
